Unconstitutional. By a vote of five to four the Suprem Court has decided the Income Pax law unconstitutional Ever since the full brach was convened there has been n uch speculation as to the attitude of Justice Jackson who was absent when the previous opinion was handed down logether with Justices Harlan, Brown and White he favored the law while thief Justice Fuller and Justices Field, trij Brewer and Shirns needed against it. Not Harmful But Beneficent. The Boston Johnnal says Already omething like a panic has selzed the Demogratic politicians at the growing certainty that the tariff will be the great issue of the Presidential campaign of 1896, and their frantic protests are a striking tribute to the strength of the Republican position. Pley realize that was chiefly the tariff which overwhelmed them in 1894, and they know that they are surely fated to a like or a worse experience pext year unless the attention of the country can meanwhile be diverted to other and subordinate questions of public policy. So they are violently accusing the Ropublicans of a wicked desire to disturb the country's business by reopening the tariff agitation. The tariff agitation cannot be reopened for the excellent reason that it never has been closed, Neither the Republican or the Democrtic party accepted the Gorman-Wilson act as a permanent solution of the tariff problem. It was tackly adknowledged whether it should be along the lines of free trade or along those of protection That question was answered with tre-mandous emphasis last November by the votes of the American people.

But while, if the popular mandate is to be compiled with another revision is apparently inevitable, it is not luminent A Democrațio President still sits în the White House Populists, most of whom are as rabid free traders as they are free sliverites, hold the balance of would prevent the passage of a new tariff sentatives even if it were disposed to undertake it By no possibility can the present turiff be amended before the inauguration of a Republican President and the assembling of the Fifty fifth Congress in 1897. So all this vociferous Insistence that Republician tariff agita-tion is going to 'disturb business' and delay the return of prosperity is wildly appropriet and preposterous

The present tariff poor, shoddy, de flott-breeding humbug that it is, must stand for at least two years more, and the country must make the best of its bad bargain At the end of these two years it must in any event be repealed or radically altered the Democratic party is not satisfied with it if he Democratic President refused to sign it, and stigmatized it as the embodiment of "party perildy and dishonor' The Republicans are irroverably opposed to

The American people need have no fear of the agitation of a tariff policy which burlds more factories and provides an increased demand for he products of American furnis and gives a nice work carners and reserves the home marke and wins new markets abroad for Amercan mahuf cluvers and micchants. the act which became a law without the signature of the President, on Aug 28, 1894, are wholly ineporative and void Our conclusions may therefore be summed up as follows

First, we adhere to the opinion already announced that the taxes os real estates being undispatably direct taxes, taxes on the reuts or income of real estate are equally threet maxs. Second, we are of the opinion that taxes on personal property or on the income of personal property are likewise direct taxes.

A woman from Akpee, a village of forty houses, told me she escaped by taking the soldiers. "I'll be a Turk and follow you." She said she saw them kill her husband, and when a soldier sized her, she appealed to an officer close by, imploring hilm for her life. He said, "Let her go." They beat her severely, took most of her clothes, and then allowed her to run away. She said she could hardly get on because of the slain persons who covered the ground. Some of the most harrowing storles we have heard have been told by the soldiers themselves.

Lord Rayleigh three ounces of the new gas
' He replied at once He slso had some of the gas Our investigations, conducted independently had led to simultaneous success as his been the case with so m iny discoveries and linver tions. There was still another coincidence a little later. As soon as we get the gas we wanted to find out its natur Was it a chemical combination or a me chanical mixing? Was it monatomic or distante, simple or compound? Profess or Olszewski of Cracow was experimenting with it in communication with me. By the application of heathe made the discovery that there was no loss of heat through intermolecular motion We made out that argon was monatom ic. I wrote the news to Cracow My letter had hardly gone when I received a communication from my confere. He had also suspected the monathmic nature of the new gas, but for another reason Argon weighs 20 times as much as by-drogen and 10 times as much as cry drogen and 10 times as much as oxy gen. He had expected the heavier gas to liquely at a higher temperature. To his surprise, it liqueled at a lower temperature. There was only one conclusion, and that was argon was monatomic. But it was curious that letters announcing the same information should cross." New York Son's London Correspondent.
